	Place of song origin (if any): Philippines
	Brief Description of the traditional song of your own country: Leron-leron sinta is a Tagalog Folk song that is believed to have originated in the provinces and was traditionally sung during the papaya harvest season. It has a call and response and is typically sung in duet by a man and a woman, with some minor alteration in the lyrics. Leron Leron Sinta is about a man named "Leron" and her sweetheart "Neneng". The song revolves around the adventures of the two sweethearts as they pick fruits from trees (papaya) and tamarind trees) one day. Lubi-lubi is a Waray Folk Song in the Philippines. This song is taught in the elementary schools elsewhere in the Philippines because the last lines serve as a useful mnemonic for the months of the year- January, February, March, April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November, December. Lubi-lubi is the plant Solanum nigrum (black nightshade).
